LEND A HAND TO SAVE THE LAND

~ Mansi

Ever since the lord almighty created this beautiful ~~world~~ ^{land}, humans have used it or maybe overused and exploited it for their own purposes.

From mountains to the oceans, from plateaus to the plains, humans have exploited each and every natural resources. Though man is the only one who could use these resources to their full potential unlike birds and animals, this fact can also not be ignored that man is also responsible for bringing destruction on this land. We humans don't realise our reliability on the nature and so, we continue exploiting it. The food we eat, the water we drink, the clothes we wear and the air we breathe all are the gifts of nature. Without these, human life would have been impossible.

Now, though nature has given us so precious gifts, we in return have only given it harsh treatment and ignorance. Most of us, think that saving our environment is not our job and such useless tasks are only the responsibility of the government or the environmentalist.

The humans keep on polluting nature and exploiting its ~~nature~~ resources. But they don't realise that by doing so, they are putting their own life in danger.

When man is dependent on nature for its survival, then ignoring the need to save and protect it shows the stupidity of man.

Polluting the air, causes harmful diseases of to us like lung cancer, asthma etc. Polluting the rivers will also results in lack of pure drinking water which causes diseases like cholera. Throwing garbage here and there also allows mosquitoes to breed on them and cause diseases like dengue, malaria etc. So ultimately the victims of such acts will be humans themselves and will have to pay the price of their brutal actions.

Another big mistake that man has committed is thinking that he is powerful than nature. But, he forgets that his existence is dependent on nature and almost his every need is fulfilled by the nature. So definitely nature is much stronger and powerful than humans. Also, human life is temporary whereas nature is permanent and immortal.

On this occasion of World Environment Day, let's make a promise to ourselves that we will do our best to save the land and make it a beautiful place to live in. If everyone of us could contribute our little help by following these steps mentioned below, then a change is definitely possible.

- i) Switch off unnecessary lights and fans.
- ii) Use bicycle instead of a car or use public transport. If possible, walk.
- iii) Don't throw garbage here and there, throw it in the dustbin.
- iv) ~~to~~ Plant more trees.
- v) Don't waste water, conserve it.

These steps though seem simple but have a really big significance in protecting our environment.

Ignoring the nature and exploiting it will not last long. Nature will revolt back in the form of natural calamities and disruptions which is quite evident in recent times. And once this happens it will cause havoc to mankind and man will be left helpless. So, lets not repeat our actions and try to bring about a change for the betterment of our environment.
